SOMEONE IS GETTING AN OPPORTUNITY

THANK YOU

FOR MAKING A DIFFERENCE

RIGHT NOW

OPPORTUNITY IS HAPPENING

Opportunity happens where everyone has access to a college education. Opportunity happens where lives are transformed because of the generosity of caring individuals and where people invest in education and training and are rewarded with a stronger, more educated community. That's PCC.

IT'S CHANGING PEOPLE'S LIVES

Each gift made to the PCC Foundation has a direct and immediate impact on the lives of PCC students, whether it goes to support scholarships, curriculum and programs, or equipment and technology. As the only nonprofit organization dedicated to supporting the mission of Portland Community College, the PCC Foundation is in a unique position to change people's lives.

IT'S HAPPENING BECAUSE OF YOU

To become a teacher, retrain in a new career, gain the skills to lead in the community – these are the opportunities the PCC Foundation provides every day. This report shows how the PCC Foundation – with the help of generous contributors, volunteers and friends – is making opportunity happen right now for PCC students and in our region.

Dear Friends,

Let us tell you what's happening right now at the PCC Foundation. It all starts with you.

When you make a gift to the PCC Foundation, it has a direct and immediate impact on students and our community by providing scholarships, supporting programs, and updating equipment and technology.

For example, the PCC Foundation awarded a scholarship to Jesus Ramirez Lopez (p. 13), who is studying automotive technology. After Jesus graduates, he plans to eventually open his own shop. Every year, hundreds of people will benefit from his education as he provides employment opportunities, stimulates the economy and builds a better life for his family.

Now that's opportunity!

In 2008-09, the PCC Foundation revenues supported $1.3 million in scholarships, program support and related distributions. We were able to award 352 scholarships, a number which will increase with successful participation in the James F. and Marion L. Miller Foundation challenge (p. 14) this year.

As a PCC Foundation supporter, you recognize the critical role PCC plays in the lives of individuals and our region as a whole. Thanks to you, the Foundation empowers students to transform their lives, and in doing so, gives our communities energized and contributing thinkers, leaders and workers.

Please enjoy the following stories of how students and donors alike found their opportunity with the PCC Foundation. Together we make opportunity happen.

Sincerely,

HE IS DEDICATING HIS LIFE TO PUBLIC SERVICE

Learning with purpose

“You’re never supposed to run with equipment,” said PCC Fire Science graduate Andrew Teixeira, who received the Albert E. Jones, Jr. Memorial Scholarship. “You do what we call ‘walk with purpose.’” It is fitting then that this is how Andrew has pursued his entire education – with a calm sense of purpose. Andrew has known PCC was the place for him since instructor Grant Coffee from PCC’s Fire Protection Technology program visited his high school chemistry class. Andrew rode with firefighters during a call, and he’s been working toward becoming a firefighter ever since.

Andrew is now working as a resident at Clark County Fire and Rescue, a position he secured after PCC helped place him as an intern there. “It’s a lot of fun,” he said. “The guys are really good teachers. One thing firefighters do a lot of is teach others.” As a resident, he is not paid, but he benefits from the experience of living and breathing firefighting every day. Of his PCC Foundation scholarship, he says, “It’s helped immensely. It’s going to put another firefighter out in the world.”

Ralph Sawning

A NEW CAREER, A NEW LIFE

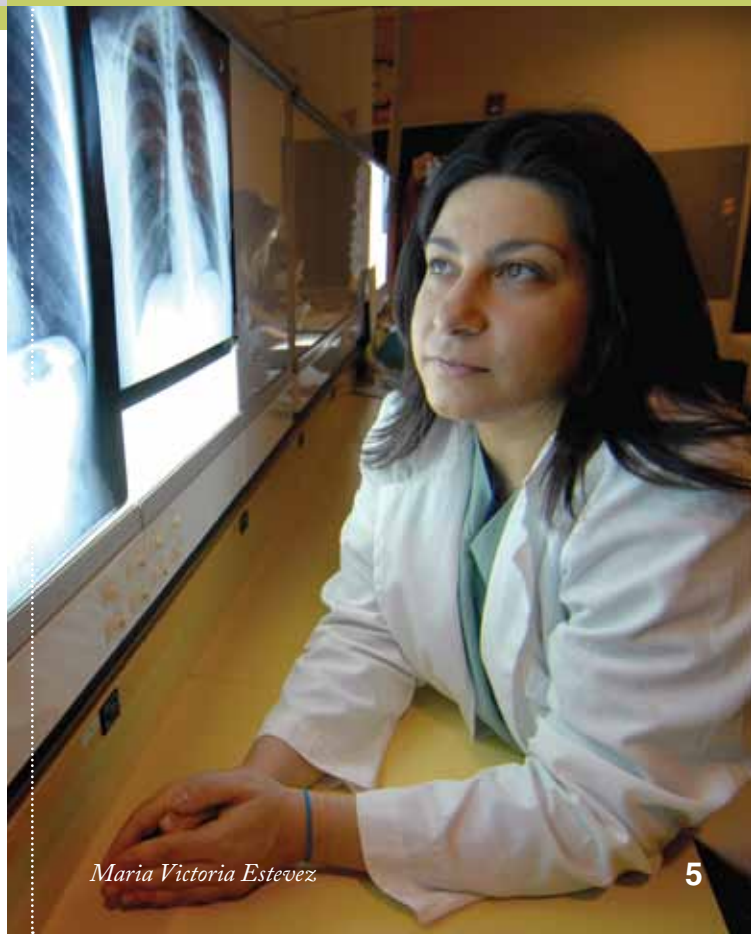

After 27 years working in labor relations, Ralph Sawning made the decision to give up his job so he and his wife could move to Oregon to care for his ailing mother-in-law. In the process, he suffered what he calls “a devastating loss of career,” which eventually put him on the path to retrain for a career as an accountant. After researching fields that are most in need of the new skills he is learning at PCC, Ralph plans to become a CPA so he can write financial software for medium and large businesses.

Without support from the PCC Foundation, Ralph – who received the Archie and Muriel Averill Scholarship and the Gordon Adkins Memorial Scholarship – said he wouldn’t have been free to study full time for his new career. “People just don’t reach out to other people as much anymore,” he said, “and that makes the PCC Foundation donors pretty special. I would not only tell them thank you but do my best to convince them how special and rare they are.”

FINDING HER CALLING

Maria Victoria Estevez, who goes by Vicky, has a lot to juggle between family life with her husband and recently diagnosed autistic son, an hour and a half commute by bus three days a week, and her final year of classes to become a radiologic technologist. Though she averages about five hours of sleep per night, you’ll never hear her complain.

Vicky, who received the Dr. Howard Cherry Scholarship, said the struggle is worth it because she knows she’s doing something important. “Without the proper x-rays you don’t get an accurate diagnosis,” she said. “I’m around people who need me. That’s my calling.” And it’s all thanks to PCC Foundation donors. “I wouldn’t have been able to make it through without the scholarship,” said Vicky.

MEETING THE GREATEST NEED

The PCC Foundation Golf Invitational is the primary fundraising event for the PCC Foundation and serves as a cornerstone for all the Foundation is accomplishing. This includes awarding hundreds of scholarships and providing program funds to advance PCC as the premier training and educational center in the state. The invitational provides funds to support the greatest need priorities of the PCC Foundation, the Building Construction Endowed Scholarship Fund, the Building Construction Sustainability Fund, and the PCC Foundation Scholarships.

THANK YOU

FOR THE GIFT THAT WILL CONTINUE TO GIVE

A legacy of education

Virginia Finders found her calling to teach later in life. After raising a family of five, she went back to school and decided to take math, a subject she considered to be her worst. Much to her surprise, she found that she both enjoyed and excelled at math, and she went on to become a math instructor at PCC's Cascade Campus. Lee Finders, Virginia's husband, was an attorney who is well remembered for his volunteer legal work for seniors.

Through a bequest, the late Virginia and Lee Finders established two memorial scholarships in the names of their sons, Robert and Joseph, who died in their youth. The Robert L. Finders and Joseph B. Finders Scholarships will support PCC students who have graduated from Grant High School, where the Finders children attended school. Endowed with a gift of $600,000 these two scholarships comprise PCC Foundation's largest gift to date.

RIGHT NOW

SHE IS BECOMING A COMMUNITY LEADER

Preparing to succeed

Without the Food Services Scholarship from the PCC Foundation, Nhi Vu wouldn't have the time to do the work she loves while building her leadership skills and going to school. "I want to be a leader," said Nhi, who is studying business. In the last year and a half at PCC, Nhi has proven that she is exactly that. She serves as Director of Diversity for the Associated Students of Portland Community College (ASPCC), works for Food Services and takes a full load of classes.

One of Nhi's biggest challenges was chairing last year's Asian New Year celebration, which drew more than 500 participants from PCC and the surrounding community. It is successes like these that make the hard work worth it. "The scholarship makes my life easier. I have more time to concentrate on my studies," said Nhi, who plans to continue studying business at Portland State University when she graduates. "If people can contribute a little bit, it helps students create a better life."

GETTING THE WORD OUT

The need has never been greater for financial support for students. Why? PCC has received 35,000 requests for financial aid this fall term alone, as compared to 31,000 requests during the entire 2008-09 school year!

As part of a plan to meet this increasing demand, the PCC Foundation has stepped up its communication efforts by adopting a new brand that identifies key messages, presents a vibrant new look and emphasizes the Foundation's mission of creating opportunity for students.

The PCC Foundation Board chose to adopt the new brand after careful consideration about the goals and future of the organization. "The new brand suggests that we have expanded our goals and are energetic in plans to achieve them," said PCC Foundation Board President Betty Duvall. "We're working from the solid base of the past toward a new future."

In May, the PCC Foundation's new brand was launched at a reception preceding the Annual Scholarship Banquet. More than 200 of the Foundation's President's Club members were in attendance. Surrounded by the faces of scholarship winners and graphic displays representing the new PCC Foundation, donors had a chance to meet one another and share their common passion for creating accessible education for all.

With these new tools of communication in hand, the PCC Foundation is well on its way to providing accessible education to all qualified students.

CONNECTING PCC ALUMNI AND FRIENDS

The PCC Foundation is cultivating a new alumni network, renamed the PCC Alumni and Friends Network to reflect more accurately a large and growing alumni base, which includes more than 60,000 alumni and friends.

Opportunities abound in this new world of alumni connections. The PCC Alumni and Friends Network is not only a good place to make professional contacts, exchange ideas and engage with alumni, it is also a great place to give back by volunteering, making financial contributions and mentoring PCC students.

Deborah Davis recently found her way back to PCC, looking for a new career after five years as a chiropractor. She took a class at PCC and connected with the PCC Alumni and Friends Network, taking part in an alumni volunteer day at Sylvania Natural Area Park.

“Everyone should contribute in some way,” said Deborah. “If people are willing to donate, it helps someone else who can benefit from financial assistance.”

Now more than ever, PCC alums can easily connect and reach out to each other through planned reunions, alumni volunteer days, alumni happy hours and social networking sites like LinkedIn, Facebook and MySpace.

THANK YOU

FOR GIVING HOPE TO WOMEN FACING ADDICTION

Overcoming obstacles through education

She was a woman of promise. Deborah Susan Fehnel Bosworth was a single working mother whose life was cut short at age 37. Her battles with alcoholism and bulimia most of her adult life prevented her from reaching her full potential. In her good years, she was a valued colleague in her work at Nike and, above all, a loving mother who unhesitatingly made sacrifices so her daughter could have a happy life. Deborah's legacy is her daughter, Dara Jester, recently graduated from the University of Oregon.

Deborah's parents, Dick and Dorene Fehnel established the Deborah Fehnel Bosworth Scholarship Fund of the Oregon Community Foundation in honor and memory of their daughter. Thanks to their gift, female students who have made the commitment to overcome issues of alcoholism and eating disorders – either for themselves or in careers that serve others battling these addictions – are changing their lives through education at Portland Community College.

OUR FUTURE TEACHERS ARE LEARNING AT PCC

Teaching the Teachers

The Early Education and Family Studies Department used donor contributions to their PCC Foundation Program Fund for Excellence to put on a winter symposium in partnership with the Oregon Association for the Education of Young Children. The symposium, “Brain Science Meets Early Childhood Development – a Timely Convergence,” brought contemporary issues in research and practice to students enrolled in PCC’s program and the larger early education community. Over two days, students had the opportunity to attend a lecture by child development expert Dr. Kathy Bobula and take part in group workshops. “The symposium gave educators an opportunity to hear about what’s happening in research and to use those findings in applicable ways,” said PCC student Char Kepner. “The knowledge of how I impact children’s lives will change my teaching forever.”

WORKING HARD FOR THE FUTURE

Jesus Ramirez Lopez vividly remembers how it felt to have no shoes as a nine-year-old boy because his parents were too poor to afford them. That memory has compelled him to work hard, spending a year at PCC studying English before being accepted into the Automotive Technology program. He also works on a farm, caring for grapes, while diligently studying brakes, suspension, electricity, engine performance and transmissions. “I’ve had a hard time with English and reading,” said Jesus, “but I’m trying hard every day.”

Jesus, who received the Angelina and Pete Costanzo Scholarship of the Oregon Community Foundation, dreams of someday owning his own shop so he can do the work he loves while employing other people in the community. “I’m really motivated by the help I’ve received. One day I’ll do the same thing,” he said. “People who support us are giving a lesson for the future. They are teaching us that we can help.”

AN EXTRA HELPING HAND

Thanks to unrestricted contributions for greatest need, eight retention initiatives were implemented in the 2008–09 school year, including the two programs highlighted below:

One-on-one mentoring

Thanks to mini-grant funding from the PCC Foundation, instructor Cindy Phillips was able to offer one-on-one mentoring to dental assisting and dental hygiene students who were at risk of non-completion. “Some of the students were struggling and possibly failing,” said Cindy. “The one-on-one mentoring helped me to help them.” As a result of this program, all student participants are better positioned for success to graduate from their dental program.

Showing how it’s done

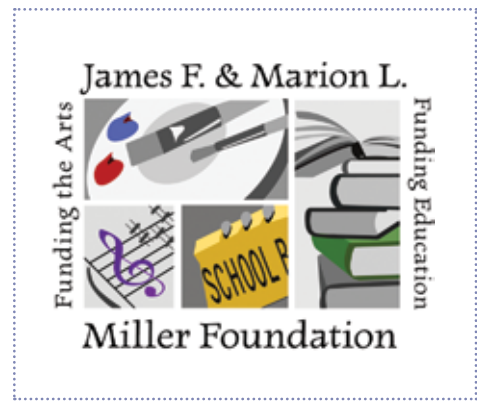

When the PCC Library received a mini-grant to introduce students to the new library catalog, PCC librarian Kevin Moore was more than willing to share his skills as a cartoonist. The result is a fun, entertaining video that is also informative. “We provided students with some basic tricks for searching for an author or title of a book and how to use those tools to augment their research,” said Kevin. “We wanted to make sure the animation was useful in the long term and improved students’ skills in utilizing the library.”

MORE GIFTS, MORE OPPORTUNITY

This past year, the James F. and Marion L. Miller Foundation challenged all 17 of Oregon's community colleges to raise more money for student scholarships. By raising $1.0 million for scholarships, the PCC Foundation received $320,000 in matching scholarship funds from the Miller Foundation.

"This is an amazing accomplishment," said PCC President Preston Pulliams. "This will go a very long way toward our philosophy of access for everyone who wants a college education. In such tough economic times, the generosity displayed here is stunning."

The Miller Foundation is now offering a second year of the matching challenge in 2009-10, and the PCC Foundation plans to once again meet the requirements in order to raise an extra $320,000, which will come in the form of new and increased scholarship donations matched by the Miller Foundation.

A VISION OF CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING

In 1991, PCC literature and humanities instructor Mary Holmström saw a critical need and opportunity to show films that portrayed African culture from its own perspective rather than from a Hollywood point of view. She joined efforts with fellow faculty members Michael Dembrow, Linda Elegant and Joseph Smith-Buani to establish the Cascade Festival of African Films.

Twenty years later, the month-long festival attracts more than 5,000 attendees annually and regularly brings in influential African directors. Last year, Mary and her husband Bob made the first gift to establish an endowment to help ensure support for visiting artists and event coordination, and begin securing the future of the festival. Mary was also named by the Portland Community College Board of Directors as a recipient of the 2009 Distinguished Patron Award, which recognizes extraordinary levels of service to the college.

"I am pleased that this award will bring well-deserved attention to the festival and that the gift we made to establish the CFAF Endowment Fund will help ensure another 20 years of the festival," said Mary.

THANK YOU

FOR CREATING OPPORTUNITIES FOR STUDENTS

The power to transform a life

Kim Galloway and Kirk Helzer have followed in the footsteps of their parents Richard and Sharon Helzer, who were generous donors to the PCC Foundation. Dick Helzer was an art instructor at PCC for 37 years; Sharon Helzer was a retired nurse and a community college graduate who returned to school when her children were in grade school.

“Both our parents believed in the power of education, particularly public education and the community college system,” said Kim. “They felt it had the power to transform a life.” When Richard passed suddenly, Sharon established the Richard Helzer Endowed Memorial Scholarship for students of the arts. Before she passed away of cancer in 2006, Sharon established another scholarship for nursing students. This year, Kim and Steve Galloway and Kirk and Kristi Helzer gave a total of $50,000 to the PCC Foundation to fully fund the Sharon L. Helzer Endowed Memorial Scholarship. “To have the ability to contribute to the dreams of PCC students, now and for years to come, is an honor and a privilege for our family,” said Kirk. “There is no more proper tribute to our parents.”

Financial Report

The PCC Foundation raised more than $2.5 million in cash contributions in fiscal year (FY) 2008-09. This represented a growth rate averaging more than 35 percent annually since FY 2005-06, when the Foundation reached the $1.0 million mark. While cash contributions were record-breaking in FY 2008-09, investment losses were approximately $260,000. Total revenues in FY 2008-09, which include cash, in-kind support, and investment activities, were $2.9 million.

Foundation revenues supported more than $1.3 million in PCC scholarships, program support, and related distributions during FY 2008-09 – and this was the first year that such activities exceeded $1.0 million. Total expenses, which include scholarships and programs, along with supporting services and investment fees, were $2.2 million during the year. PCC Foundation revenue net of expenses resulted in a $0.7 million increase in net assets, the bulk of which is committed to building the Foundation's endowment to support future PCC scholarships and program initiatives.

THANK YOU

BRINGING DONORS AND STUDENTS TOGETHER

Every year, the PCC Foundation hosts the Annual Scholarship Banquet, an unforgettable event that brings together PCC student scholarship recipients and the hundreds of scholarship donors who have helped make students' dreams of higher education come true. Students share stories about their time at PCC and tell how a Foundation scholarship award made a difference in their lives.

Corporate sponsors, including the Oregon Lottery, Northwest Natural, Intel and U.S. Bank, made this event possible and demonstrated their commitment to providing accessible education and training for students. The Oregon Lottery, which served as the presenting sponsor, is a longtime supporter of higher education and since 1995, has contributed $4 billion of Oregon Lottery profits to public education including Oregon's public universities and colleges.

It does good things™
