APPROVAL OF THE AGENDA

The agenda was approved as published.

ADJOURN BUSINESS SESSION TO HOLD A PUBLIC INFORMATION SESSION ON THE SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET FOR 2011-2013 IN ACCORDANCE WITH ORS 294.471 AND THE ACHIEVEMENT COMPACT IN ACCORDANCE WITH SB 1581 (2012)

Supplemental Budget #2 for the 2011-13 Biennium – Jim Langstraat, Associate Vice President, Finance

Mr. Langstraat stated to ensure compliance with regulations regarding transfer of budget funds the Board is asked to adopt changes proposed in Resolution 12-134.
He reported that notice of the Public Information Session had been published as required and that neither he nor budget office staff had received any comments in opposition to or in favor of the proposed changes. He said the proposed budget amendments are minor in nature and that none would increase property tax rates nor would they change tuition rates or student fees. Mr. Langstraat added that the most significant changes are to the General Fund and are related to enrollment growth and associated expenses to support that growth.

Dr. Pulliams acknowledged the budget team’s work to produce the supplemental budget.

2012-13 Achievement Compact with the Oregon Education Investment Board (OEIB) – Laura Massey, Director, Institutional Effectiveness

Ms. Massey provided a report on the final version of the achievement compact, Resolution 12-132. She said ongoing achievement compact conversations have been conducted since last fall in PCC groups including the Budget and Advisory Planning Committee (BPAC), Academic and Student Affairs Council (ASAC), and the Cascade Leadership Retreat. She said the Achievement Compact includes the actual 2010-2011 data, projected 2012-13 projections and 2012-2013 targets for the College and that the targets and breakdowns are intended to provide information for each institution’s use in improving outcomes for specific areas. Ms. Massey described the preparation process for the report.

Chair Harper noted that the definition of the achievement compact has changed over the past year in that at the start all 17 Oregon community colleges agreed the achievement compact would be a one-page document as opposed to the final four-page document with 86 targets. He added he believes staying active and involved in the process offers the best protection against possible detrimental effects to community colleges and higher education in general.

Dr. Pulliams added the long-term strategic plan includes tying funding to achievement compact goals.

Ms. Massey expressed concern that to reach PCC’s projections for the 2025 40-40-20 goal would mean very large annual increases for awarding degrees and certificates that would not likely be attainable. She explained to just to reach the goal for certificate awards would mean increasing the base by 500 each year and that the numbers of students needed, funding to provide courses, and other factors could make that unachievable. She said another concern is if funding is tied to certain certificates and degrees that might mean some areas would not be given needed attention and important student needs could go unmet.

Chair Harper expressed appreciation for Ms. Massey’s work in the statewide development of the achievement compact.
Southeast Center Update
Julie Kopet, Interim Dean of Instruction, Southeast Center reported that Dr. Kolins was in Europe presenting to an international board and studying Europe’s method of transferring prior learning into credits.

Ms. Kopet introduced Nikola Vucinic, one of two Southeast Center student recipients of Oregon Community College Association’s (OCCA) All Oregon Academic Team scholarship awards. She said the other recipient was Beverly Ivey.

Ms. Kopet reported significant enrollment growth for Southeast Center in both unduplicated number of students served and fte as a result of improved class scheduling, hours of operation and class offerings as well as updated classrooms and labs. She added that full-time faculty numbers over the past year were increased by 10.

Ms. Kopet reported Dr. Jessica Howard has been selected to serve as the new Southeast Center/Extended Learning Center President and will begin her duties in mid-August.

Ms. Kopet reported she found some statements in recent Oregonian articles to be somewhat confusing and misleading as regards Portland Public Schools alternative high school completion and PCC programs including YES - the GED Program, MAP - the Multi-cultural Program, and Gateway to College - that awards adult high school diplomas. She explained that in the articles completion rates appear to be lower than they in fact are in part because of differing success measures used for Portland Public Schools alternative programs and PCC, differing timeframes, the number and purpose of PCC programs, the ages of student populations and overlapping nature of the PCC programs.

Quality Education Goal
Laura Massey, Director, Institutional Effectiveness
Ms. Massey reported that increased focus on accountability makes this a particularly relevant goal in measuring if students leaving PCC have received a quality education. She said some of the key measures include consistent high pass rates for licensure and certification exams, student academic performance for PCC students transferring to four-year institutions, and assessment based changes for improvement as reported annually by each PCC discipline. She added that in their report from most recent accreditation visit the accrediting team complimented PCC faculty for developing assessment activities designed to reflect promotion and change.
State Update
Rob Wagner, Government Relations Manager

Mr. Wagner said to expand PCC’s identity and outreach with elected officials throughout the district and the state would be a three-step strategic process; conduct a preliminary assessment of how they perceive PCC, educate them about PCC through consistent outreach, and develop elected officials as college advocates. He said some current outreach from the PCC community includes serving on local and state boards and commissions. He cited some examples; Charlene Gomez and Betty Duval have been appointed to the Higher Education Coordinating Commission (HECC) under the Oregon Education Investment Board (OEIB), Dr. Todd Sanders has been appointed to the Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) statewide task force, and Ken Madden has been appointed to the Oregon Workforce Investment Board.

Mr. Wagner reported recent activities for the Government Relations Program include panel discussions during the legislative interim committee hearing days regarding Future Connect that may result in future funding, a panel presentation to the Veterans Affairs Committee about the challenges veterans face as they come back from service and begin classes, and leveraging relationships and opportunities like with the Solar Array and PCC’s relationship with Representative Jules Bailey that may result in the PCC Newberg Center being featuring in the next round of state funding for cool schools because of sustainability efforts utilized in its building.

Mr. Wagner said some potential funding challenges PCC faces at the state level include the unclear path of OEIB, structuring of the state’s budget base funding for the community college support fund, and funding provided through innovation grants. He added that these could also be seen as funding opportunities for the college because they could mean that the real costs for producing some of the more expensive technical preparation programs that help qualify students for jobs might be more fully funded. He said he sees a legislature move to more support for education resulting in job creation. He added that federal funding impacts include reauthorization of the Labor Health and Education Bill that is looking at PELL funding, revisions in the Workforce Investment Act that could include a lot of potential changes, and Stafford Loan rate increases.

Mr. Wagner concluded his report saying he met with staff from Congresswoman Bonamici and Senator Wyden’s staff to discuss the possibility of bringing the Congresswoman and Senator to PCC for round table discussions with a cross-section of students, business leaders, and faculty at each of the campuses and centers within their constituencies regarding student debt, workforce investment and other relevant topics. He added the process could be repeated with Congressmen Blumenhauer and Shrader and Senator Merkley.
