Facebook Post (June 14, 2020)

We are aware of the possible SCOUTS court decision happening tomorrow June 15, 2020. The court is set to decide on the future of thousands of DACA recipients. Tomorrow is the 8th anniversary of DACA and we are getting ready to work with our local, state, and national partners to face any outcome that is taken. Regardless of the decision tomorrow we want to remind you all that: Our Home is here. We were here before DACA, we will be hereafter. We will continue to fight and protect our communities from deportation as well as keep pushing for a future where every person, regardless of immigration status, can live and thrive without fear. The DACA decision comes as Black people in our country are continuing to fight for the right to live without fear, we are in solidarity with our Black communities who are fighting for their lives, including Black immigrants who at this moment are also facing the heightened threat of deportation. We know that you all might be asking yourselves what we are doing, or how you can get involved. The DACA decision also comes at a time when our LGBTQ+ communities have had their rights attacked recently with the supreme court repeal protections in the workplace. We know that DACA recipients and immigrant communities also identify within the LGBTQ+ community. We stand united and will fight alongside until we are all free as we also recognize the intersectionality of our movement.

First, take care of yourselves and your family members.

Second, FIRM is creating a space for undocumented, DACA holders and allies to join, get activated through relational organizing on June 15th from 3 pm to 4:30 pm to celebrate the 8th Anniversary of DACA. You can register at Third, be on the lookout for media content as we are working on a press conference as soon as the decision is made so we can share with you what the decision means.
