Wanna Prayukvong, is an associate professor at a rural branch campus of Mahidol University in Nakon Sawan, Thailand. This semester she is in the United States, on leave from Mahidol University in order to be a Fulbright visiting scholar at Babson College located near Wellesley, MA. At Babson, she is working with her host Professor Dr. James E. Hoopes on a project about Buddhist economics. Their project is a study of a small textile production firm owned by a devout Buddhist family committed to practicing interconnectivity in their daily lives and in their business.

This presentation is conducted through the Fulbright Scholar Program’s Outreach Lecturing Fund (OLF). OLF enables Visiting Scholars to share their research interests, speak about their home country, and exchange ideas with U.S. students, faculty, and community organizations. Through these lectures, universities forge relationships with the Fulbright Scholar Program, Visiting Scholars, and the Visiting Scholar’s home and host institutions.
