

Opposing Viewpoints

Opposing Viewpoints covers contemporary social issues, from abortion to zero tolerance policies. It provides a broad variety of information including viewpoint essays, news and magazine articles, court-case overviews, and more.

Begin at www.pcc.edu/library, go to the “Shortcuts” box, click on “Databases”, then find Opposing Viewpoints under “O”.

Two Options to Find Viewpoint Essays

To begin your search you can either use “Browse Issues” to select a topic suggested by Opposing Viewpoints, or use the search box to find your own topic.

Browse Issues Option

Below the search box is the “Browse Issues” option with a light bulb symbol. Click it to see an alphabetical list of controversial topics. Selecting one takes you to a collection of viewpoint essays, articles, and other relevant information sources.

At the top of the page is an essay that provides background and context for the controversial issue. Below it are lists of viewpoint essays, articles from academic journals, news articles, videos, and much more.

Search Box Option

If your topic isn't on the lists of issues, enter it into the search box at the top of the page.

This takes you to a list of viewpoint essays, articles from academic journals, etc. At the top of the page is the “Content Types” list of information sources on your topic.
