Welcome to AWARE-PCC

What is AWARE? It is an Alliance of White Anti-Racist Educators

Instructors, staff and administrators at PCC gather for a monthly conversation about white identity, privilege and whiteness. The heart of our discussions considers ways “the skin we are in” affects how white people work with students and colleagues of color at PCC. Grounded each month in an essay and/or video, the AWARE group critically reflects on how white identity impacts our work as teachers, staff members and administrators at PCC. We explore how white people can take action to create multiracial alliances and combat racism.

BRIDGING IDENTITIES, STORIES AND COMMUNITIES

MAY 16-18

PCC Southeast Campus
SE 82nd & Division

Three days of workshops, lectures, performances, and stories about the diverse social and multicultural (or intercultural) experiences of our SE Portland Community.

For a full list of events visit:
pcc.edu/cultureSEast

A three-day series of performances, workshops, experiences, and celebrations designed to:

- Create awareness of, and appreciation for, the vast range of cultural diversity that makes up our community;
- Promote understanding of the historical and current implications of diversity and multiculturalism for our community given our location and moment in history; and
- Move our community to intentional, relevant and strategic action towards education equity.
