Senior Project Portolio - Capstone project in Child Development 4, providing reflection, research papers, and evidence of meeting essential skill requirements relevant to the workforce and future education and training.

3. All expectations have been met:

A. Students receive guidance and counseling related to this program of study through Career to Work counseling, specialized college and career counseling within Naviance, and dedicated lessons within every level of course in the program. See links to course catalogue, Naviance, and Career Pathways. My program website also has a link to the PCC ECE program: <http://www.hsd.k12.or.us/Academics/Programs/CollegeandCareerPathways.aspx>

B. Students weekly participate in an on-site preschool lab, where they are responsible for observing, assisting, lesson planning, prepping and lead teaching specific activities. See the CHS Early Childhood website link and blog to see photo evidence of daily interactions. Link above.

C. Students invested in this program of study are counseled by myself and their school counselor in courses to take to support their goals in the program of study. Suggestions include order of courses, pathway advancement (some students can take a "faster track" option which will allow them to take an independent study practicum at an elementary school their senior year. Recommended electives outside of the program of study, that support the program of study, are also discussed, as well as post secondary options. See link above.

D. All Extended Application projects are directly based on the program of study and articulation agreements with PCC. Examples include: Preschool Profile Poster documenting developmental gains and goals for individual preschool children with photo documentation included, Teacher Reflection Project documenting personal reflections of concepts gained through class, skills the student feels confident in and proficient at, and commitment to the program through discussion of ethics in education. The TSA is the capstone project senior year which includes a teaching philosophy statement, 3 separate research papers, documentation of hours spent working in the preschool and service hours spent on a focus project of choice, and evidence of meeting the 6 essential skills as required through our district. Can find graduation requirements on the HSD website. See link above.

E. Handouts are provided to students regarding college articulation. PCC also provided booklets and handouts that are passed on to students in class. I directly walk students through applying for dual credit as well. Scholarship and post secondary information is also readily available in the counseling center. Students and parents are able to research colleges and scholarships by accessing the Naviance link provided above and logging in. See link above.

F. I reach out to my male students in my program of study and encourage them to consider jobs in education, mentoring, or social service. I had a program of study poster made to advertise my program, and chose to use one of my male students with two of our preschoolers as the faces of the poster. I teach a specific lesson in my intro level classes focusing on biases in education and the benefit of having male teachers in early education.

G - H. Century is committed to serving all students. I personally work with support staff for students with special needs and for our ELL students. If an aide is needed in the classroom, then that is provided. Otherwise, I will communicate needs with the support staff and student and make any necessary accommodations. Examples are: altering the physical environment to support a student, partnering a student with a mentor peer, accommodating their coursework and expectations, using Google translator to help with communication between student and myself, and finding ways to help the student use their talents to the best of their ability. Mission From Support Services: Our mission is to promote the academic and social potential of each student by providing education in the least restrictive environment that leads to productive citizenship, while meeting the needs of a culturally, linguistically and intellectually diverse student population.

I. Support for students that are English Language Learners is provided through our Bi-Lingual Programs and support personnel.
